Why The Pilots?

According to Bluff legend, though the original nickname that students chose in a 1935 contest resulted in "Chinooks" (after the Indian tribe that inhabited the area, and the largest of the salmon species in the Willamette River), the "Pilots" was chosen by presidential fiat. From that day forward, the Bluff had a new mascot, and he was Wally Pilot. When the University changed its name from Columbia University (its earliest sports teams were known as the Cliffdwellers or the Columbians), to the University of Portland in 1935, the name and University had already begun to adapt a more "nautical motif," suitable for a campus site overlooking the Willamette River. At the same time, the Pilot athletic teams became associated with Wally (a stylized riverboat pilot), and the pilot's wheel became the logical logo.

LAST GAME

- JoJo Walker and Malcolm Porter combined for 32 points as Portland defeated San Francisco 76-65 Saturday night at the Chiles Center.
- The Pilots won despite missing leading scorer Isaiah White, who was a late scratch with the flu. Walker moved back into the starting lineup and was sensational, finishing with 19 points on just nine shot attempts, dishing out six assists and committing just one turnover.
- It was a complete team effort as all nine Portland players that got in the game scored four or more points. Defensively, the Pilots forced 19 turnovers and limited the Dons to 42 percent for the game.
- The victory snapped a five-game losing streak for the Pilots and broke an 11-game losing streak in the series with San Francisco.
- Portland led for a majority of the night in a game that featured four ties and 11 lead changes, but San Francisco took a late 56-55 lead on a Charles Minlend layup with 5:04 remaining. The Pilots would then use a 10-0 run to take control sparked by back-to-back three-pointers by Porter and Walker.
- Portland shot 49 percent from the field as a team, made 7-of-13 three-pointers and 19-of-24 free throws.

HEAD COACH TERRY PORTER

Portland basketball icon Terry Porter was named head men's basketball coach at the University of Portland in April of 2016. Porter, a 17-year NBA veteran player and former NBA head coach, is the 21st basketball head coach in Pilot history.

Porter guided Portland to notable wins over Oregon State, Portland State and a first-round West Coast Conference Tournament victory against San Diego during his inaugural 2016-17 season. The Pilots suffered a crushing season-ending injury to All-WCC senior point guard Alec Wintering after starting the season with a 9-5 record and 2-0 start to conference play and ended up 11-22 overall.

Porter, 52, was a standout for the Portland Trail Blazers and had his jersey retired by the franchise in 2009. During his 17-year NBA career, Porter averaged 12.2 points, 5.6 assists, 1.2 steals, made two All-Star appearances (1991, 1993), two trips to the NBA Finals (1990, 1992) and scored 15,586 career points. He currently ranks 14th on the NBA's all-time assist leaderboard (7,160).

A Milwaukee, Wisc. native, Porter brings extensive NBA coaching experience to the Pilots. He was the head coach of the Milwaukee Bucks for two seasons (2003-05), including leading the team to the 2004 NBA Playoffs. He served one season as head coach of the Phoenix Suns (2008-09) and was also an assistant coach at Minnesota, Sacramento and Detroit.

The notable coaches that Porter played for throughout his career include Jack Ramsay, Rick Adelman, Flip Saunders, Pat Riley and Gregg Popovich. Porter also played for legendary college head coach Dick Bennett at Wisconsin-Stevens Point. Bennett would go on to great success with UW-Green Bay, Wisconsin and Washington State.

In addition to his playing and coaching accolades, Porter has been one a strong advocate for various community and charitable organizations. He was a long-time team ambassador for the Trail Blazers after his playing career ended and one of the biggest community contributors of any Portland-area celebrity. He is a Boys and Girls Club Hall of Fame member, board member at Doernbecher Children's Hospital, and created the Milwaukee Scholars Fund in 1994, which provides college scholarships to minority students.

He and his wife Susie have three children – Brianna, Franklin and Malcolm.
