BYU Heads to No. 8 Utah for NCAA Regionals

As the No. 20 team in the country, the BYU gymnastics team has been selected as the fourth-seeded team in the NCAA North Central regional tournament at No. 8 Utah on April 12.

The Utes will play host to No. 6 Stanford, No. 18 California, No. 20 BYU, No. 21 Denver and No. 23 Minnesota. This is the only regional of the six regional sites that will showcase six top-25 teams.

With a season full of school records, the Cougars will be going into the meet with confidence.

BYU's head coach Brad Cattermole is pleased with the regional bid.

"I didn't want to be seeded out of the region," he said. "Traveling to Utah is an excellent opportunity for us."

The Cougars broke the school's team vault record four times throughout the season, and two gymnasts, Brogan Jacobsen and Kari Lords, received perfect 10.0s.

"This team has done wonderful," Cattermole said. "I am very pleased with how far they have come this season."

The Cougars will need to perform exceptionally well and fight hard to edge out their competitors. Only then can they move on to the next step--nationals.

The top two teams in each region will advance to nationals on April 24 in Lincoln, Nebraska.

COUGAR QUICK NOTES

Senior Stars

Lindsay Butterfield and Candace Slater have lead the team by example all season long, consistently scoring well. Butterfield competed in every event in every meet this season, and Slater competed on the floor exercise every meet this season. Butterfield notched a career high 39.500 in the all-around against Missouri. Slater received a career-high 9.925 on the floor four times during the season.

2003 Record-Breakers

The Cougars broke the school's old vault record four times this season, finishing off the season with a spectacular 49.400 against Southern Utah. Kari Lords and Brogan Jacobsen broke school records on beam and floor respectively--both with perfect a 10.0.

Stellar Sophomores

Both Jamie Mabray and Kirsten Pauga competed in the all-around for during the season. Jamie received a career-high 39.650 against Utah--the third highest all-around score in BYU history. She injured her foot after that meet, but came back mid-way through the season to help the Cougars. Pauga began competing in the all-around and improved throughout the season finishing off her season with a career high 39.375 against Utah. Both competitors will continue to help the Cougars for the next two years.

BYU Women's Gymnastics Meet-by-Meet Summaries

Mabray Wins All-Around, Cougars Fall to Utes

SALT LAKE CITY (January 17, 2003) -- Opening their 2003 season minus an All-American and competing against long-time rival University of Utah, the BYU women's gymnastics team fought hard and came together as a team. Despite losing to the Utes 196.8 to 194.7 Friday night in the Huntsman Center, the Cougars managed to break some individual career bests.

Most notable was sophomore Jamie Mabray, who set or tied personal all bests in all four events to win the all-around title. Mabray's all around score of 39.650 nearly broke BYU's individual all-around record of 39.7, set by All-American Kelly Evanson. Her score is the third highest score BYU has ever received.

Utah's Melissa Vituj placed second in the all-around with a score of 39.625, a personal best. She also won the floor exercise while teammate Annabeth Eberle won on bars. On her way to the all-around title, Mabray won both the vault and beam competitions while placing second on floor and bars.

"Jamie really fought through the whole thing," BYU head coach Brad Cattermole said. "She doesn't always have the highest level of difficulty, but she does what she can perfectly."

Other outstanding performances came from Brooke Haskett, who came in third on the floor exercise and nailed her bar routine, and Kari Lords who scored a 9.850 on the beam.

Coach Brad Cattermole was extremely pleased with the team's performance. "I am thrilled with the way that we performed tonight. We are really coming together and moving in the right direction."

First Home Meet A Success For BYU Gymnastics

PROVO, Utah (January 25, 2003) - In the first home meet of the season, BYU's women's gymnastics team beat the Boise State Broncos 195.6 to 193.725 Saturday night in front of 1,536 fans in the Smith Fieldhouse.

Competing without their leading scorer, Jamie Mabray, who broke her foot last week, the Cougars pulled together and stepped up their performances to not only beat the Broncos but also take first place in every event.

Head Coach Brad Cattermole was pleased with the competition and the girls' optimism throughout the meet.

"I am so proud of the girls' attitude through the whole thing," Cattermole said. "They fought hard and kept going. That is what is most important."

Candace Slater and Brooke Haskett tied for first in the floor exercise with scores of 9.925. That score ties Haskett's career best, and broke Slater's previous career best of 9.900.

The Cougars swept the balance beam competition with Kari Lords taking first with a 9.925, and Trisha Ashton and Kirsten Pauga tying for second with a 9.875.

Misty Philbrick's bar routine was one of the highlights of the meet. After having some trouble during warm-ups, Philbrick nailed her routine. She took second place after teammate Brooke Haskett.

Another highlight of the meet according to Cattermole was having the BYU's gymnastics alumni in attendance for the meet. The alumnae got a chance to compete again after the meet was finished-in a handstand contest.

"It is always nice to have the alumnae come," he said. "It gives us a chance to renew old friendships."

BYU Scores Season Low at Kentucky

LEXINGTON, Ky. (Jan. 31, 2001) -- The 16th-ranked BYU women's gymnastics team scored a season-low 192.475 Friday, losing to the University of Kentucky. The host Wildcats won the meet with a 194.075.

"We just couldn't get anything going tonight," BYU coach Brad Cattermole said. "We had some nice performances but we weren't doing the little things you have to do to score."

With two falls on bars, BYU had to a count an 8.725 on its way to a season-low 47.600. The Cougars improved slightly on vault but still suffered their lowest total of the season on that event, scoring a 47.950. Entering the final two rotations, BYU trailed the Wildcats by more than two full points at 97.900 to 95.550 as Kentucky scored 49.325 on vault and 48.575 on bars.

Even though BYU recorded its third straight season-low event total with numerous wobbles on balance beam, the Cougars made some gains on Kentucky, scoring 48.250 to the Wildcats' 47.350. Kentucky's Melanie Zaharias won the event with a 9.825, but BYU took the next four places, led by junior Kari Lords with a 9.775 effort.

The Cougars had their best performances on the floor exercise despite Lords being unable to compete due to a sore neck. Senior Brooke Haskett again came through for the Cougars, receiving a 9.900 to place second behind Kentucky's Zaharias (9.925). Haskett earlier placed second on bars with a 9.800. BYU's 48.675 on floor was its best score of the night, just being edged by Kentucky's 48.725.

Arona Primault won the all-around for Kentucky with a 39.050. BYU had two gymnasts compete in all four rotations, with senior Lindsay Butterfield placing third in the all-around (37.550) and sophomore Kirsten Pauga finishing fifth (36.775).

"I thought Kari (Lords) did a nice job on bars -- she hadn't practiced all week and hit a pretty nice routine," Cattermole said. "We have a young team. We'll put this behind us and hopefully do much better next week."

Cougars Tumble with Cat Classic Loss

Columbia, MO (February 7, 2003) --After winning the Cat Classic two years in a row, the Cougars gave up their title Friday night to host University of Missouri, and came in fourth behind the University of New Hampshire and the University of Arizona.

Falls on the bars cost the cougars in the running, scoring 47.775, which is an improvement from last week's season low of 47.600. The Cougars also fell short on the beam scoring a 47.625, another season low.

Arizona's Monica Bisordi won the all-around title with a 39.325, with second and third place finishers, Lindsay Davis (39.225) and Alisha Robinson (39.175) both from Missouri.

Sophomore Kirsten Pauga the only Cougar to come in the top three on an event. Pauga's floor routine scored her a 9.825, tying for third with New Hampshire's Vanessa James and coming in behind Missouri's Lauren Schwartzman (9.850) and New Hampshire's Michelle Harley (9.850).

BYU's other all-around competitor, senior Lindsay Butterfield scored her highest scores of the season on beam with a 9.725 and on the floor exercise 9.800.

Boise State Broncos Conquer Cougars

BOISE, Idaho (February 14, 2003) -- Although the Cougars competed well and received their highest team score this season, the BYU women's gymnastics team fell to the Boise State Broncos Friday night 196.375 to 195.900.

Despite the loss, the Cougars improved their marks from the past two weeks of competition. They scored a 192.475 against Kentucky and a 192.850 at the Cat Classic in Missouri. Their previous highest score this season, a 195.600 was also against Boise State.

Boise's Carla Chambers took the all-around with a 39.250 with BYU's Lindsay Butterfield close behind with a 39.200.

BYU's Kirsten Pauga took first on the vault with a career-high score of 9.925 and tied for third on the bars with a 9.875. Trisha Ashton received season high scores on vault and beam, both 9.900. Ashton took second on vault and tied for first on beam.

Other Cougars that placed in the meet include Lindsay Butterfield and Brogan Jacobsen who tied for third on the bars, and Meghan Donahue who tied for third on the vault.

Cougars Defeated by Utah State; Ashton Takes First on Vault and Beam

LOGAN, Utah (February 21, 2003) -Despite a hearty effort by the BYU women's gymnastics team, the Cougars fell to the Utah State Aggies 195.925 to 195.625 Friday night in Logan.

The Cougars, receiving a score in the 195s for the second week in a row, placed well throughout the meet, but were hurt by deductions made on a few floor routines and some falls on the beam.

Junior Trisha Ashton tie for first on the beam, along with Utah State's Meagan Nelson, with a season high score of 9.925. Ashton also took first on vault with a 9.875.

Utah State's Nicole Kilpatrick took the all-around title with a 39.350, followed closely behind by teammate and freshman powerhouse Meagan Nelson who scored a 39.300.

The Cougar gymnasts received their highest team bars score of the season with a 49.175. BYU's Brooke Haskett, a senior, took third on the bars with a score of 9.875.

Other Cougars who placed in the meet include sophomore, Kirsten Pauga who took third on the vault with a 9.800 and Kari Lords who took third on beam with a 9.900.

Cougars Overpower Wildcats; Butterfield Takes All-Around

PROVO, Utah (February 28, 2003) - In a spectacular performance by the BYU women's gymnastics team, the Cougars defeated the University of Kentucky Wildcats Friday night 196.8 to 192.475.

A crowd of 1,729 fans in the Marriott Center watched as the Cougars broke their previous season high of 195.9, and Senior Lindsay Butterfield took first in the all-around competition for the first time in her college career with a career-high score of 39.325.

The Cougars also received season high marks on vault (49.0), bars (49.275) and floor (49.450). The 49.075 BYU received on the beam was their second beam highest score this season.

"This is the kind of meet we have been capable of," BYU head coach Brad Cattermole said. "We just had to go out there at hit like we know we can--and we did."

On vault, BYU's Trisha Ashton took first with a 9.925 and teammate Kirsten Pauga took second with a 9.900.

Butterfield, who was BYU's only all-around competitor in the meet tied for first place on bars with two of her teammates, Brogan Jacobsen and Kari Lords with a score of 9.875. The score is a career high for Lords and tied Butterfield's season high.

Butterfield also took first on the beam with a career high score of 9.900. Teammate Trisha Ashton took second with a 9.850. University of Kentucky's Michelle Gales received a score of 9.825, placing her at third on the beam.

The floor brought the biggest scores of the evening, and the biggest audience reaction. Three Cougars received career high scores on the floor. Brogan Jacobsen took first place with her career-high 9.925. Butterfield followed closely behind with a 9.900, and Lisa Willis, Candace Slater and Brooke Haskett tied for third place with a 9.875--a career high for Willis.

"The floor routines were really on tonight," Cattermole said. "The excitement builds, and the girls catch on to that. They feed off of each other."

Lords and Jacobsen Win Perfect 10s--Cougars Take Second

PROVO, Utah (March 7, 2003) -- For the first time in BYU history, a perfect 10.0 was scored on both the beam, and the floor exercise, as the Cougars competed Friday night in the Marriott Center.

Junior Kari Lords received a perfect 10.0 on her beam routine, and Brogan Jacobsen, also a junior, got a 10.0 on her crowd-pleasing floor routine. BYU has never received perfect 10.0s on these events.

The only other perfect ten in BYU history came from Christy McAdams in 1992 for the vault.

"Kari really put it together on her beam routine, and Brogan just lit up the floor," BYU head coach Brad Cattermole said. "Individually we had some awesome routines, but as a team, we just didn't have the energy."

BYU Women's Gymnastics Meet-by-Meet Summaries

The Cougars placed second overall in the closely-scored quad meet with a score of 195.425. Opponent Southern Utah took first with a 195.875. Third place went to Central Michigan with a 195.250, and Utah State took fourth with a 195.225.

BYU struggled getting the meet started on the vault, scoring a 48.275, but picked it up on the bars getting their second highest bar score of the season with a 49.250. The team struggled on the beam until Lords stepped up to win her 10.0. The team beam average was a 48.300.

When the Cougars took the floor for warm-ups, Lords twisted her ankle on a tumbling pass, taking her out of competition. With senior Brooke Haskett out with a knee injury, the Cougars have had to adjust their floor line-up. BYU beat its season high floor score with a new high of 49.600, and Jacobsen won her 10.0.

Another highlight of the floor was junior Trisha Ashton who scored a career high 9.900.

"Trisha really came through for us tonight on the floor," Cattermole said. "She knew that she had to step up, and she certainly did."

Ashton also tied for second on the vault with a 9.875

Other Cougars who received career highs Friday night include freshman Lisa Willis who received a career high 9.825 on the bars and 9.925 on the floor. Senior Lindsay Butterfield broke her career record on floor with a 9.950, and tied for second place for the event.

Lords also broke her season high on the bars with a 9.900, and tied for second place for the event.

Cougars Rise to Defeat Oregon State Beavers

PROVO, Utah (March 15, 2003) --The BYU women's gymnastics team rose to the occasion Saturday afternoon to beat No. 10 Oregon State 196.775-195.325.

The No. 22-ranked Cougars also swept the all-around competition with Jamie Mabray (39.525) taking first, Lindsay Butterfield (39.400) taking second and Kirsten Pauga (39.100) taking third. Both Butterfield and Pauga received career-high all-around scores.

"The girls came into this meet with a lot of determination," BYU head coach Brad Cattermole said. "It was nice to see that determination pay off like that."

Oregon State started out slightly behind the Cougars after the first rotation and couldn't get the momentum to pull ahead.

The Cougars started out strong on the vault, scoring a 49.275, the highest vault score in BYU history. Senior Lindsay Butterfield scored a career-high 9.875 on her new vault and Trisha Ashton took first place and tied her career best with a 9.925. Jamie Mabray tied for second with a 9.900

BYU then moved to bars and received a team score of 48.950. Butterfield again hit her routine, tying her career-best score of 9.900 and taking first place on the event. Oregon State's Elizabeth Jillson and Tanya Ricioli tied for second place with a 9.850.

season-high. Ashton nailed her routine, tying her career-best score of 9.925 and taking first place on the event. Teammate Mabray took second with a 9.875, and Butterfield tied for third with OSU's Angela Morales with a 9.850.

On the floor, the Cougars received two deductions for stepping out, but the Cougars still received a 49.350. OSU's Chrissy Lamun scored a stellar 9.950 on her first place-floor routine. Jamie Mabray, who hasn't been able to compete on the floor since January, received a 9.925, a career best and tied for second on the event with teammate Candace Slater, who tied her career high. Oregon State's Angela Morales also tied for second.

Coach Cattermole said that the highlight of the meet for him was watching Lindsay [Butterfield] nail her routines and getting Jamie [Mabray] back into competition.

"Lindsay has been working so hard," Cattermole said. "Watching her hit was really great."

Cougars Defeat Mizzou Tigers; Butterfield Wins All-Around

PROVO, Utah (March 21, 2003) -- For the second week in a row the No. 22 Cougars defeated a top 25-ranked team when they beat the Missouri Tigers Friday night in the Marriott Center 195.700-194.675.

As another repeat from last Saturday's meet against Oregon State, BYU gymnasts swept the all-around. Senior Lindsay Butterfield came in first with a career-high 39.400. Sophomore Kirsten Pauga followed suit and received her career-high 39.150, placing her in second. Sophomore Jamie Mabray took third with a 38.725.

Also for the second meet in a row, the Cougars broke the BYU record high on the vault. Last week they broke the school record with a 49.275, and this week they broke it with a 49.375.

Butterfield also took first on the vault with a career-high 9.950. She was followed by teammate Trisha Ashton, who tied with Missouri's Alisha Robinson for second with a 9.900.

BYU's head coach Brad Cattermole said that he was amazed with the performances on vault.

Due to gymnasts out with injuries, BYU competed with only five girls on the bars.

"I am pleased with how the girls fought on the bars," Cattermole said. "If we would have had to count a fall, this meet could have turned out a lot differently."

Missouri's Robinson and teammate Andrea Nervig took first and second on the bars with a 9.850, and BYU's Jamie Mabray and Brogan Jacobsen tied for second with a 9.800.

BYU was shaky on the beam, and the Cougars had to count two falls into their beam score. As a result the Cougars received a 48.025, their second lowest beam score of the season. The lowest score was the last time the Cougars competed against Missouri in February.

Butterfield came out on top on the beam also. She tied with Missouri's Lindsay Davis and Lauren Schwartzman for first with a 9.8950.

BYU Women's Gymnastics Meet-by-Meet Summaries

As the Cougar's headed to the floor, they were only ahead 146.2-146.075. The team rallied together to nail a 49.5, their second highest team floor score this season, and to solidify their lead over the Tigers.

Butterfield, Jacobsen and teammate Candace Slater tied for first on the floor exercise with a 9.925.

Cougar Gymnasts Top Thunderbirds

CEDAR CITY, Utah (March 24, 2003) -- After falling to Southern Utah University two weeks ago, the Cougars conquered the Thunderbirds 196.050-195.475 in Cedar City Monday night.

For the third meet in a row, the Cougar gymnasts made school history by breaking BYU's team vault record. Friday night the Cougars scored a 49.375 to break the record against Missouri, and this week they topped that score with a 49.400.

Sophomore Kirsten Pauga placed first on the vault with a career-high 9.950. Teammate Trisha Ashton came in second with a 9.925, which ties her career best. SUU's Molloy Bauer took third with a 9.900.

The Cougars competed well on the bars, although BYU's head coach Brad Cattermole felt that the girls were a little bit hesitant.

"I am happy with how the girls did on the bars," he said. "I feel that we were somewhat more cautious than we needed to be."

Although Brogan Jacobsen tied her career-best score on the bars with a 9.825, SUU swept the event. Carly Geronimo, Jessiann Andrus and Talayna Fortuanato all tied for first place with a 9.850.

The Cougars started out unsteadily on the bars. After two fall in the first three routines, the remaining Cougars stepped up to keep BYU in the running. Ashton took first on the beam with a 9.900, while three SUU competitors tied for second place.

"I would have been happier without the falls on beam," Cattermole said. "I am happy with the effort though."

Jamie Mabray and Candace Slater tied for first place on the floor exercise with a score of 9.925. The score ties both gymnasts' career bests. SUU's Sandi Lyman and Cayce Overstreet tied for third with a 9.900.

Mabray took first in the all-around with a 39.325. SUU's Talayna Fortunato took second with a 39.275, and BYU's Lindsay Butterfield placed third with a 39.175.

"Overall I am pleased," Cattermole said. "Our score in the 196's will certainly help our regional qualifying score."

Utes Knock Off Cougars 197.4-196.025

PROVO, Utah (March 28, 2003) -- In BYU's last meet of the regular season, the Utah Utes knocked off the BYU women's gymnastics team 197.400-196.025.

Despite the loss, BYU's head coach Brad Cattermole was satisfied.

"This team has come a long way," Cattermole said. "We had four girls do vaults worth 10.0s tonight. We didn't have any when the season started."

But Cattermole was also less than happy with the falls on bars and beam.

"I would rather have had the girls stay on the equipment than get a good score," he said.

The Cougars performed consistently on vault, scoring a 49.200. Utah scored a 49.475 and placed three gymnastics in the standings. Annabeth Eberle took first with a 9.950, and teammates Veronique Leclerc and Kristen Riffanacht followed behind.

For the most part the bars routines were steady. Junior Brogan Jacobsen hit a career-high bar routine with a 9.900 and junior Kari Lords, who sprained her ankle two weeks ago, stepped up as the last competitor to keep the Cougars in the meet. Her "watered-down" bar routine scored her a 9.650, dropping Jamie Mabray's 9.325. Lindsay Butterfield tied her career-best of 9.900.

Utah's Kim Allan took first on the bars with a 9.950, and teammate Eberle came in second with a 9.925. BYU's Jacobsen and Butterfield, along with Utah's Dominique D'Olivieria tied for third with 9.900.

The beam proved to be a challenge to the Cougars. The first four competitors performed well, but didn't receive high scores. BYU's last two competitors both fell, putting BYU further behind in the competition.

"I thought that we had it on beam," Cattermole said. "I didn't expect our last two girls to fall."

Sophomore Kirsten Pauga placed third on the beam with a 9.850. Utes Melissa Vituj and Eberle took first and second respectively.

After Utah's Annabeth Eberle received a perfect 10.0 on her floor exercise, the Cougars knew they would have to nail their floor routines. Like clockwork, the Cougars rallied together to score a 49.450 on the floor, to pull BYU into the 196 range.

Sophomore Jamie Mabray scored a career-high on the floor, placing her third on the event. Utah's Eberle won the floor competition with her perfect 10.0 and teammate Vituj took second with a 9.975.

Kirsten Pauga placed third in the all-around with a career-high total of 39.375. She received the Cougar Award in recognition of her stellar performance. Utah's Eberle and Vituj took first and second respectively.
